I suppose she has been here fifty times. It is not difficult to search a man, but it is almost impossible to find such a small thing as a saw concealed about the person of a woman."

Three of the prisoners in the lower cage refused to leave, though the way was open to them. Those remaining were Lem Oakes, charged with the murder of Clarke in Cedar county, Perry Gregory, a Bates county man who is in for forgery, and B. F. Barnum who is serving a jail sentence of 160 days for selling whisky at Eldorado.

Mrs. DeGarmo inhabits an improvised cell in the corridor and could probably have squeezed through the hole in the wall had she so desired. Some of the other prisoners say that she has taken a fancy to Oakes, and would have gone had he not decided to stay; but it must be remembered in this connection that Mrs. DeGarmo is not on the best of terms with the other

HE SEES IT.

An Intelligent Man's Idea of Advancing Missouri.

In conversation with a St. Louis republican reporter. Major Harvey W. Salmon, of Clinton, said:

"I have been as busy as a bee for the last six weeks in the interests of the Southwestern Immigration Society, and I don't know one solitary blessed thing about state politics. I can truthfully say that I have put in every working hour in my labors for our section of Missouri and I am enlisted heart and soul in the effort to bring her to the front. Why, I never knew before that you must invite people to move into vour country, if you expected an increase in the population. I am just waking up to the fact that thorough, legitimate advertising in this direction, as in everything else, pays. Now, we are just beginning our work, but I find that such incidental notice of our meetings as we have received from your city press has stimulated inquiry from Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Dakota. Of course settlers in the blizzard region can't pull up stakes and leave at once and come into our country, but they are bound to come as soon as they get foot loose. No man parts with his children in the morning and sees them brought home at night frozen stiff and ever forgets it, or goes into further eestasies over the glorious, bracing country in which he has been so unfortunate as to locate As a matter of fact people read the literature of a certain section, inviting them to become settlers therein and then close their eyes to all other spots, however desirable, as a home. Your Kansas smitten people never see the best parts of Missouri, and only her rocky portions from the railroad train. Now, we propose to correct this sad state of affairs, as far as lies in our power, by putting forth a handbook showing up the 25 counties of soythwest Missouri which comprise our society. The officers of the association will enumerate the advantages of the section as a whole, while particular communities will be heard from on their especial interests. Through the medium of the railroads, and through channels peculiarly our own, we shall distribute these pamphlets where they will accomplish the best results. Now, I wish you could see John Jaynes, chairman of our board of finance, for he could tell you all about it."
